

COHESION AWARD WINNERS – December 2024

Caitlin Lonut: 1st Place – Prize Draw: She is being polite, respectful and making a really good first impression during tutorials.

Troy Lund: 2nd Place – Prize Draw : For an act of kindness.

Angel Banks: 3rd Place – Prize Draw : Marked improvement in attitude.

Imogen Latham : Imogen has come so far from her early days at Preston College. More recently, we have witnessed her on multiple occasions, maturely supporting fellow students, helping them to access further support with bursary, ID cards and even finding their classrooms. Imogen has attended events in main reception and engaged with visitors/external attendees and represented herself and the college in a positive manner.

Ava Jolliffe: During the Staff Wellbeing Day, Ava shared her life experiences with approximately 45 staff members. Her presentation was nothing short of amazing. Ava's passion and inspiration truly resonated with everyone in the room, and it took great bravery for her to share such personal stories. The feedback from the staff was overwhelmingly positive, highlighting her ability to connect with Staff on a deep level. She made such a real impact.

Tyler Coulton: Perseverance and resilience. His Student Manager is very proud of his hard work.

Hayden Kay: He has an excellent attendance and punctuality record and is always pleasant and polite. He completes all tasks and activities to the best of his ability and asks relevant questions. He willingly supports other learners in automotive due to his advanced skills and truly represents Preston College values.

Phillip Breakell – great student who is really improving with every lesson he attends.

Isaac Chapman: Organising a Christmas quiz for his group supplying prizes. He did a really good job.

Isobel Edgar – For navigating a friendship issue and asking for help – always being on time and present in lessons.

Lewis Leigh – Assisting Campus Cohesion for the health and safety of others.
